It's Great to be Home...

We made it! The real miracle, though, is that all eight of our overweight bags made it with us. We were so encouraged as Mongolian friends and co-laborers met us at the airport, reminding us that, this time, we were not starting out on a new adventure, but rather coming home. We've conquered jet-lag and jumped right back in to work, ministry, and life in Mongolia. We have finally worked our way through all the red tape and have our first printing job with Big Fish Apparel. We are working with Kim Jong Ok (our Korean teammate) to implement a new discipleship program at One Way Baptist Church. The Manna center continues to reach out to the children at Shar Had. God is at work in Mongolia, and we are privileged to be a part of it. It's great to be home!

Divine Appointment...

Not long after we returned, we received a text from Begii, Naraa's oldest son: 'Are you in Mongolia yet?'. He let us know that his high school graduation celebration was coming up and we were able to attend. In fact, we were the only 'family' that made it to the festivities that morning. Our hearts were full as we watched him walk out, knowing his mom would have been standing there proudly if she were still alive. We talked about his plans, and how he wished he had the advice of his mom as he walked into the future. We praise God that we are able to help and be a voice of influence in his life; hearts like Begii's are the reason we are here. Would you join us in praying toward the day that Begii gives his life to Christ? It's a day we are looking forward to with great expectation!

Chris and Begii just before his Honkhni Bayar (graduation celebration) began.

Prayer Points

Salvation: Begii (Naraa's son)
Naraa's family
Sosoroo

Manna Center/Children's Church: wisdom and grace as we navigate the system in a restricted country children's growth in understanding God's truth

Big Fish Apparel: wisdom as we search for and test out quality, price-efficient suppliers building of our reputation and testimony in the business sector and opportunities to share our faith
